NATIONAL RIDING STANDARDS

During the past few months The Chronicle has had the pleasure of publishing, month after month, accounts of the successes of our United States Equestrian jumping team in Germany, England, Ireland, Belgium, Holland and at home. Equally pleasurable, and certainly more significant, have been the quotations from high authorities in these countries about the manner in which these victories have been accomplished. Those who really know agree that, among all the international teams competing today, the styles and standards of riding exhibited by the American team are matched only by the Italians.

Much credit for this must be given to the team coach, Bertalan de Nemethy, trained in the Hungarian Cavalry School whose methods were based on the teachings of the Italian Caprilli. But even greater credit should be given to the general standards of junior riding which have obtained for a number of years in the United States. No matter how much we may admire the improvement brought about under de Nemethy in the performances of the four young men now representing this country so brilliantly, we must nevertheless realize that by far the larger portion of their riding lives, including the most formative years, were spent in different sections working under different teachers.

Perhaps because riding abroad occupies a relatively much more important place in the national sports picture, there has been a tendency in some circles here to assume that everything across the Atlantic in the way of horsemanship must be better. Obviously we owe a great deal to Europeans, particularly those who have come here as teachers, to de Souza for dressage, to Santini for forward riding, and to their successors. But we owe even more to the many highly competent men and women of this country who have established and improved our standards, both by precept and example.

Most important of all, our young riders follow these standards. They have not been induced to ape the acrobatics of a few gifted competitors whose fundamental good horsemanship enables them to win in spite of these gyrations—a tendency which has been noted and deplored in current foreign publications, particularly in England. Anyone comparing the pictures of young riders over fences in the various foreign horse periodicals cannot fail to be impressed by the superiority in form illustrated by the pictures regularly published in The Chronicle.

At the National Horse Show last week-end—at any good show for that matter, featuring hunter ponies and hunter seat equitation classes—one saw scores of children in every class that are a real pleasure to watch. They may be a bit passive from inexperience, they may not make enough use of their legs, but they show the kind of good form that is capable of being extended to international heights, the kind which avoids all abuse of horses and ponies.

Horsemanship and riding have a long way to go in this country—make no mistake about it. Even though our progress may seem slow, we should never allow the national craze for speed to alter where we are now—on the right track.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS

Orsini's trainer, Adrian von Borcke, "acclimatizes" his horses in the Dortmund stables area with disc-music, to get them accustomed to brass bands on German and foreign racetracks. To prepare for the US expedition, Adrian played Orsini the no. 1 tune: of the hit parade: the rock n' roll Americano.

"Information Please"

Dear Sir:

Do you have any information on the highest a pony has jumped? Years ago, at Pottstown, Pa. (Ed Gruber's home I believe), I saw a pony named Suprise Champion lose to a mare named Miss Liberty Bell. The mare had to jump over 6 feet to win. It is my understanding that the pony had been vanned all night previous to the show.

Thank you for any information you might be able to secure for me.

Sincerely,
Ralf Harned

Washington, D. C., International Reaches Maturity

Raleigh Burroughs

Though pages of verbiage are required to put forth the rules of racing, a contest of velocity and capacity for enduring is the simplest sport that can be devised.

A Polynesian person and a Persian prince may enjoy the game without a previous experience.

Racing breaks down all language barriers. In any tongue, a man can root for No. 2.

That is the reason that Laurel's Washington, D. C. International has become the world's greatest mixer. It makes people in one country take an interest in what's going on in other lands, if it's only to wonder if the other guy's got something that doesn't show up in a saliva test.

Baseball has a World Series that has been fought for by representatives of cities no farther apart than the width of the East River.

What, then, is an engagement that attracts entries from Australia, Germany, Italy, Venezuela, Argentina, Ireland and Russia, besides the United States?

If you can extend an intra-state squabble to a "world" series, this thing must include outer space. Proponents of Ballymoss claim he is the best horse in the world. So it is not unreasonable to assume that Mars and Venus - the two planets most likely to have life - can't show a better one. Maybe we'll know for sure in a few years. There'll be a headache for the Martians and Venutians, though - trying to get their animals recognized by the British Stud Book. It took us nearly 50 years, and WE'RE friendly.

Conclave of Nations

Two days before the International, Laurel held a conclave of nations to enable the press of the world to meet the people behind the horses in the race. At this gathering held at the Woodner, in Washington, there were citizens of Ireland, Argentina, Russia, Venezuela, Germany, Australia, all parts of the United States and Bethesda, Maryland.

As everyone present had read about the adventures of Laurel's representative, Mr. Joe Cascarella, behind the Iron Curtain, there were some misgivings about the Russian practice of toasting. Reports had it that Mr. Cascarella's visit was just one big round of well-wishing with three-ounce slugs of vodka. With two dozen

"It doesn't matter how far you're coming from behind, you've got to start with the rest of us."

toasters working earnestly for better diplomatic relations, that can add up to a lot of vodka. (Mr. Cascarella reports that sclerosis of the liver, over there, is considered no worse than a bad cold.)

On top of this, the story was that the Russians take it as an affront if anyone fails to down his measured three ounces after each glass-lifting.

Thus, the minor league drinkers among John Schapiro's guests at the pre-race party were a little concerned over what ingestive feats might be expected of them.

Their fears were groundless. Only one toast was proposed - by the Soviet Ambassador - and that was washed down with a red Bordeaux. And nobody checked to see if everyone emptied his glass.

Official representatives of the countries with horses in the International ranged from press secretaries to top diplomats. Each one made a speech, and they were good speeches.

Most interest was shown in the Russians.

The rider, Viktor Kovalev, had his interpreter at his side. When somebody made a funny, Viktor tilted his head toward the gent who understands both Russian and English, listened, nodded and then chuckled - two minutes after the general laughter had subsided.

Kovalev looks bigger than most of our riders. He looks hard and fit and very Russian.

Yevgeni Dolmatov, director of the Moscow Hippodrome, is a large gray-headed man with bushy eyebrows that seem to get to you before Dolmatov does.

Ambassador Menshikov

Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov was warmly greeted when he rose to his feet. He is a distinguished-looking gentleman, with fine, rather handsome features, nothing like the thick-necked Slavs that growl belligerently at United Nations' meetings. He paid a fine tribute to American journalists. "They are great writers," he said. "When I first came to this country, a newspaperman telephoned and asked for an interview. As I was very busy it was pointed out that it would be difficult to schedule time. 'I won't need any time,' the man said, 'I just want to shake your hand.' So I said, 'All right,' and he came in and shook my hand and left.

"The next day, the 'interview' appeared in his newspaper. It filled a whole page."

Ambassador Hearne

Ireland's Ambassador John Hearne told about the two Irishmen who were discussing World War II. One said Hitler would win; the other said, "No, it will be the British." They argued through the course of the war and when it was over the one who thought Germany would be victorious had to admit that he had been wrong. "But with those bombings and everything," he said, "how was it you were so sure all along that the British would win?"

The other fellow responded, "The British are great fighters. Remember, they nearly beat us."

All in all, it was a brilliant gathering, and it must have done much for international good will, for everyone left loving everybody else.

One thing is certain - the Washington D. C. International has reached maturity. It is an established race and a sport event of world significance.

Now racing people everywhere are speaking of the International Triple Crown - the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes, the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe and the Washington D. C. International.

Mr. Schapiro, you've made it!

Jamaica

The Sport Page Handicap

Jamaica's Sport Page Handicap ($25,000 added), run on Election Day, drew a field of 14 horses of all ages for the 6th running of the 6 furlong sprint. Montpelier's Nahoda got off to a sluggish start but recovered to finish 1 1/2 lengths ahead of Mrs. I. Gushen's Bumpy Road. Natalie R. Lynch's Man's Mink was 1 1/2 lengths further back but finished a neck in front of Llangollen Farm's Nashville, which took the short end of the purse.

The 5-year-old gelding Nahodah is by *Nasrullah out of the great producing mare Accra, by Annapolis. She has produced Mandingo, Songai, the great Neji and Nala. Quite a lineup for any mare to match. Nahodah was bred by Mrs. M. duPont Scott and is trained by F. A. Bonsal. Joe Culmone had the winning ride. The time was 1.10 1/4 over a fast track.

The victory gave Nahoda four wins out of 14 starts; 4 second places and 2 3rd places for 1958. The $19,135 boosted his earnings for the year to $64,624. He now has $136,849 to his credit.

The Haverstraw Handicap

On Friday, November 7th, J. D. Wimpfheimer's Jocko's Walk defeated a field of six in an overnight handicap, The Haverstraw. Sunny Side Stable's Infantry was 2nd; Byrnanal Stable's Civet was 3rd; and *Ros -Nuala, owned by P. A. Tamburo, was 4th.

The winner is a 4-year-old chestnut by Billings-Barracoon, by *Heliopolis and was bred by J. A. Bell, Jr. He has $85,232 for his three years of running. W. Sadlacek trained him and Eric Guerin was up.

The Roamer Handicap

The big race at Jamaica was The Roamer Handicap, run on Sat., Nov. 8. The 1 3/16 miles handicap stakes had a $75,000 added purse and as could be expected it brought out all the 3-year-olds, whose connections thought they had any kind of a chance for a part of the split.

Fourteen went postward and the winner, by a head, was Mrs. Mabel C. Scholtz' Warhead. Windfield Farms' *Grey Monarch was 2nd; Mrs. C. U. Bay's Idun, the favorite, 3rd; and G. Lewis' Martin's Rullah 4th.

The winner is a bay son of Battle Morn-Headfirst, by Eurasian or Head Play and was bred by the owner. K. E. Jensen trains him and Eddie Arcaro brought the winner in "under heavy punishment". It was his 6th victory out of 20 starts this year. He finished in the place position three times and in the show spot twice. The $56,675 he gleaned in this one brought his earnings up to $157,645 and you can add $7,565 to that, his winnings last year.

Every time Warhead wins, he brings sorrows and regrets to the breeders who exiled his sire Battle Morn (*Blenheim 2nd-Good Morning, by *Sir Gallahad III) to stud duties in the West Indies.

Garden State Park

Jersey Belle Stakes

Mooring Stable's (Mrs. Elizabeth H. duPont) Tempted defeated a field of nine 3-year-old fillies in the 5th running of the Jersey Belle Stakes at Garden State Park, Tuesday, Nov. 4th. Foxcatcher Farms' Lopar was 2nd, 3/4 of a length behind the winner. A head separated J. M. Roebing's Point Pleasant and Calumet Farm's A Glitter, the 4th horse.

The winner is a chestnut daughter of *Half Crown out of the Lovely Night mare, Enchanted Eve. She was bred by Christiana Stables and is trained by H. S. Clark. Jockey E. Nelson was the winning rider and the time for the 1 1/16 miles was 1.45 over a slow track.

Tempted's share of the $25,000 added purse was $18,378.75. She now has a total of $74,135.75 for her 1958 efforts - 16 starts, 4 victories, two seconds and 4 show placings. Added to the $13,395 won as a juvenile, the 3-year-old miss has gleaned $87,530 for her handlers.

The Trenton Handicap

The 17th running of The Trenton Handicap ($75,000 added), for 3-year-olds and up was won by Brunetti-Piarulli's Vertex.

THE CHRONICLE

The 1 1/4 miles handicap stakes, run on Nov. 5th, brought out a field of seven handicap runners. After the finish of the first half mile Calumet's Bardstown (the favorite) took the lead and held it only to be beaten, by a head, in the final drive to the wire. L. G. Burns' Eddie Schmidt was a well beaten third, 4 1/2 lengths behind Bardstown. Fairlawn Farm's Sharpsburg was 4th.

Vertex is a 4-year-old chestnut colt, by The Rhymer-Kanace, by Case Ace. He was bred by F. A. Piarulli and is trained by J. F. Piarulli. Vertex carried 117 pounds to Bardstown's 122. His time, on a fast track, was 2.02 2/5. Sammy Boulmetis gave Vertex a hand ride through the final yards to win.

Vertex got $54,822.50 for his effort and has three victories out of six starts for this year, giving him $62,917.50. He now has won $135,555 for all of his campaigning. F. A. Piarulli, who bred the horse, sold a half interest in him to J. J. Brunetti last year. Mr. Piarulli's son, Joseph, got the trainer's ten percent.

Laurel

The Spaulding Lowe Jenkins

Thirteen 2-year-olds faced the starter in the 29th running of The Spaulding Lowe Jenkins allowance stakes, at Laurel Race Course, on Nov. 4th. The 1 1/16 miles feature had a $20,000 added purse. B. Sharp's Troilus withstood the challenge of Elkcam Stable's Open View to win by a nose. Open View in turn just withstood the drive of Cockfield Stable's (Mrs. Constance R. Eppley) Nimmer by a nose. W. M. Jeffords' Honk was 4th, 2 lengths farther back.

The bay Troilus is by *Priam II out of Drift Song, by *Heliopolis and was bred by H. Weill. C. Peoples trains the youngster and Nick Shuk was the winning jockey. The time was 1.45 4/5, over a fast track. It was the third victory out of seven starts for Troilus. He placed second once and third two times. His share of the purse was $15,196.25, which gives him $21,746 for the year. Troilus made the "honor roll" as a stakes winner in his first stakes appearance.

The Selima

C. T. Chenery's Rich Tradition won the 33rd running of The Selima, $30,000 added, at 1 1/16 miles for two year old fillies at Laurel, on Sat., Nov. 8th. A field of 10 answered the starter's call with H. H. Polk's Toluene finishing 2nd and Spring Hill Farm's (J. D. Norris) Annsie Pie coming in for the show money. In the number four position was Mrs. J. G. Van Demaele's Merry Hill.

The bay daughter of Rosemont out of Legendra, by *Challenger II was bred by Newstead Farm (Mr. & Mrs. Taylor Hardin, Upperville, Va.). The "net value to the winner" was $37,646, and it brought Rich Tradition's earnings over the

Montpelier Hunt Races

Chris Wood, Jr.

With a "Pepsi-Cola" sky overhead and mild weather prevailing in the area of Montpelier Station, Va., some 4,500 persons enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Marion du Pont Scott and witnessed six thrilling races on Saturday, November 8. Operating as the Montpelier Hunt Races, the admission-free day of sport is held at Montpelier, currently Mrs. Scott's noted Thoroughbred breeding and training center, and originally the Old Dominion residence of President Madison.

Posthumously honoring one of the greatest steeplechase riders of our time, the Noel Laing Steeplechase Handicap served as the stellar attraction on a well-balanced program. Carrying a $3,000 added purse, which grossed $3,475, the 2 1/2 mile race over 10 brush obstacles fell to Mrs. M. G. Walsh's Rythminhim.

With the usual rider, Thomas Walsh, still grounded with a virus condition, the temperamental 'chaser from Southern Pines, N. C., had the saddle services of Evan Jackson. Apparently the Virginia-born jockey listened well to the pre-race words expounded by trainer M. G. (Mickey) Walsh and Rythminhim ran according to script.

Eight in Noel Laing

Last of the field of 8 to depart starter H. A. (Brud) Plumb's tape Rythminhim slowly moved into 6th position as the field followed C. Mahlon Kline's Gridiron and Montpelier's Dromond over the 3rd brush jump. This order continued until the 6th, where Dromond tired, permitting Mrs. June H. McKnight's *Narcissus 2nd to supplant him as the horse to worry the front-running Gridiron. In the downhill run to the 9th jump, the eventual winner worked his way into 4th position behind Gridiron, *Narcissus 2nd and Mrs. Cordelia Scaife May's Billing Bear. In the uphill run to the 10th and final brush fence, Rythminhim responded to mild pressure and sailed the fence a 1/2 length off Gridiron and *Narcissus 2nd. Upon landing and straightening out for the stretch run, Jackson went to work on the veteran 'chaser and gradually drew away to win by a length. Tiring after leading over all of the fences, Gridiron gave way in the final strides to permit *Narcissus 2nd to gain a head decision for place honors. A. P. (Paddy) Smithwick, *Narcissus 2nd's rider lodged a complaint against the winner, which was disallowed after a brief conference of the stewards.

Showing that he relished a two-week rest at the North Carolina training center, after a dismal performance in the Temple Gwathmey at the United Hunts-at-Belmont Park meeting, Rythminhim negotiated the hill-and-dale journey in 4:44 over firm turf. It was the 3rd success of the year for the 'chaser which returned to racing after suffering a separated pelvis during the 1955 running of the $50,000 added Temple Gwathmey. In his first triumph of 1958, Rythminhim defeated Montpelier's Benguala at Saratoga, a feat which was later reckoned when Mrs. Scott's home-bred scored a nose decision over Mrs. Ogden Phipps' great Neji in the most recent Gwathmey renewal. At the past Belmont Park meeting, Mrs. Walsh's color-bearer beat John M. Schiff's Tarboots by a neck in the 40th running of the Harbor Hill Steeplechase Handicap under 155 pounds, highweight in the field of 7 starters. In the Noel Laing, Rythminhim shouldered 156 pounds to be 2nd on the weight list, with his stablemate, Independence, carrying the top impost of 161. Never in contention, the latter finished 5th in the field of 8 contenders.

The Montpelier Cup

Contested over a 2-mile brush course, the Montpelier Cup served as the secondary attraction and 5 accepted the issue, which was for a $1,200 purse. Emulating his performance of 1957, Mrs. A. J. Smithwick's Crag came from 3rd in the field to dispose of George T. Weymouth's Eastcor over the 9th and final brush jump. Leading by 1 1/2 lengths over this obstacle, the versatile campaigner responded to A. P. (Paddy) Smithwick and drew away to win by 5 lengths. Tiring, Eastcor managed to finish 2nd, a head to the good of Thaddeus R. Trout's *Chicago 2nd, who alternated the lead earlier with Eastcor. In winning the Montpelier Cup for the 2nd straight year, Crag furnished Paddy Smithwick with his 33rd winner of the year over obstacles to assure the Maryland jockey of divisional dominance for the 3rd straight year. Aside from his 33 triumphs over jumps, Smithwick has ridden 5 winners on the flat at hunt race meetings for a total of 38. Getting into the winner's circle late in the season, the popular jockey who will ride abroad this coming winter scored his initial success of 1958 with the Arcadia Stable's Caste at Belmont Park on May 14.

Your Point Wins

The good day of sport opened with the Meadow Woods, a 1 3/4 mile hurdle contest. Cleverly handled by Albert Foot,

Finish of The Virginia Plate at the Montpelier Hunt Races, Montpelier Station, Orange, Va. - The winner was Morris H. Dixon's *Windsor Tonic (3rd from the right), with jockey E. Deveau up. (Allen, Middleburg, Va.)

Montpelier's Your Point was going away at the finish to defeat Capt. J. L. B. Bentley's Russ by 8 lengths. Best of the balance in the field of 6. C. Mahlon Kline's *Isle of Shine was 3rd in the event which was run in 3:31 2/5. One to watch in 1959, Your Point, a 3-year-old filly by *Nirgal-Your Game, won at the first asking in a 1 1/2 mile hurdle race at Fair Hill, Md. in September. The triumph in the Meadow Woods was only the 4th start of the season for Mrs. Scott's lightly-used sophomore filly.

Following the hurdle race, the scene shifted to the regular training track where Morris H. Dixon's *Windsor Tonic made his 2nd start at a hunt race meeting a winning one. By far the best of a field of 10 starters, the 6-year-old import was hustled away from the tape by Edwin Deveau and was never headed for the 1-mile trip over the loam track. Resisting a bid from Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Ideal Match in the stretch, *Windsor Tonic drew away to win by 4 1/2 lengths in 1:43. Making his initial start at a hunt race meeting, Mrs. William Crane's Dirce closed well to be 3rd, a 1/2 length off Ideal Match at the conclusion.

Ragtime Cowboy Wins Again

Having registered in the 1-mile flat race, trainer Dixon and jockey Deveau teamed up to account for the Madison Plate with C. Mahlon Kline's Ragtime Cowboy. Meeting a trio of contenders in the 2 mile hurdle contest, Ragtime Cowboy led throughout to defeat the Sanford Stud Farms' Sun Dog by 2 1/2 lengths. Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Out of Reach and Mrs. M. G. Walsh's Hindrance completed the field as named. A 3-year-old who appears to have a bright future awaiting in 1959, Ragtime Cowboy covered the 2-miles and 10 hurdles over firm turf in 4:21. It was his 4th success of the season, which included a triumph in the $10,000 added Louis E. Stoddard at the United Hunts-at-Belmont Park in the skein.

With the delightful day of sport drawing to a close, the crowd again shifted over to the flat training track where they witnessed the start-to-finish triumph of C. A. Moore's Best Ace in the Bellevue Plate. Named for the William du Pont family home in Bellevue, Delaware, the 1 3/4 mile route event drew 6 starters and Best Ace easily bested Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Punctuality by 5 lengths. With contention well strung out, the latter gained place honors 9 lengths in front of George T. Weymouth's Bold Remark. In covering the route in 3:10, Best Ace scored his second success of the season at a hunt race meeting and furnished James Wyatt with his first winning ride.

PHILIP ALLES

Watching the 7th running of the Washington D. C. International, was Mr. Phil Alles, public relations officer of the German Jockey Club and for some years German correspondent of The Chronicle. Mr. Alles came over in the Orsini plane by invitation of Mr. John D. Schapiro. They left Dusseldorf Airport on November 5th.

ANOTHER RACE

Two of Maryland's gentlemen timber riders of recent years hooked up in another type of race this fall. This time the trophy was a congressional seat from Maryland. Danny Brewster, wearing the colors of the donkey, tangled with Fife Symington, who ran under the elephant banner. Mr. Brewster won out in the stretch drive.

GREAT BARRINGTON

Spencer Drayton, executive secretary of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, has announced that the fair track at Great Barrington, Mass., has been accepted for membership in the TRA.

TRAINERS SAY NO

Opposing the recommendation of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association that fifth money be given at U. S. tracks, the American Trainers Association, at the annual meeting on October 2nd, registered an emphatic dissent.

GERMAN ENTRY: ORSINI

No better German horse has ever been shipped to the Washington D. C. International than Orsini, German Derby winner in 1957, bred and owned by the Erlenhof Stud. With 480,000 marks earned during three racing campaigns in 19 starts (13 wins and 3 seconds) he is the biggest money earner in Germany since World War II. Orsini's rider is young Lester Piggott who had the mount in the last four outings of the dark brown colt by the German nine-time leading sire Ticino out of Oranien by Nuvolari. Orsini "fished" the biggest purses in Europe during August and September by scoring in the Grand International d'Ostende et de l'Exposition in Brussels. In his efforts in Ostende, Oslo and Brussels, Orsini had to carry 138 pounds. Orsini is trained by Germany's Jimmy Jones - tall black-haired Adrian von Borcke with his mighty aquiline nose.

ADOLPH SCHINDLING

Senator Adolph Schindling, owner of the German Asta-Stud, and his stud manager, Dr. Udo von Kummer, recently left Frankfurt Airport for a three weeks business and pleasure tour through the U.S.A. They attended the Washington D. C. International at Laurel and the Madison Square Garden National Horse Show. There they met the dressage rider Frau Lieselott Linsenhoff, whose maiden name was Schindling. The party will also visit some stud farms in Kentucky.

Asta-Stud is one of the youngest in Western Germany, but has already compiled an impressive record. In its first crop was the Austrian and German Derby winner Kaliber. Two years later (1956) Kaliber's dam Kirschfliege (Brantome-Curl Paper by Papyrus) produced the second Derby winner Kilometer (by Alizier) the first time that a German has accomplished this feat. One of the three German Ribot foals is now at the Asta-Stud near Cologne. It is out of Botticelli's sister Bartolina (Macherio-Buonamica by Niccolo dell'Arca) and is named Bagger (i.e. dredging machine). Mr. Schindling breeds on a European rather than a national basis. 90 per cent of his foals are by European top-sires such as Botticelli, Blue Peter, Nearco, Tudor Minstrel, Relic, Toulouse Lautrec, Dante, Vieux Manoir and even Ribot.

DAM OF *STEPHANOTIS BOUGHT

An important recent purchase by American interests in England is the fourteen-year-old mare Shello, believed safely in foal to the unbeaten Italian champion Ribot. Shello is the dam of the good horse Umberto, the winner of seven races worth 8,327 pounds and now at stud, and also of the Cambridgeshire Handicap winner *Stephanotis, who has subsequently done so well for Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben's Hasty House Farm since his arrival in the United States.

Shello is by Donatello II (sire of Alycidon and Crepello) out of Show Girl, by Son-in-Law. Louis E. Wolfson of Jacksonville, Fla. is the purchaser. The mare has been flown to Leslie Combs' Spendthrift Farm, Lexington, Ky. P.T.-C.

KENTUCKY

POLY HI TO STUD

Mrs. George Zauderer, owner of Poly Hi, has announced that the filly would be retired because of a chip off the bone of the 3d carpal in her right knee. She is being sent to the Clarkland Farms of John W. Marr at Lexington, Kentucky where she will be bred to a suitable stud in the coming year. Poly Hi is by Polynesian-Highfortides and was bred by Daniel G. Van Clief of the Nydrie Stud, Esmont, Va. She was trained throughout her entire career by George M. Odom. Purchased for $5500 at the Saratoga Sales she proved to be the greatest yearling bargain of the 1956 auctions. As a 2-year-old in 1957, she earned $160,845 and won the following stakes: - Rosedale, Colleen, Arlington Lassie Fashion, Astoria, and National Stallion (filly division), and placed in the Singing Tower and Matron Stakes. She was the runner-up for the championship of the 2-year-old fillies of 1957. This year, Poly Hi trained brilliantly at Saratoga and was being pointed for the Test Stakes. It was in her final workout from the gate that her injury occurred.

THIRD BROTHER

C. T. Chenery's 5-year-old stallion Third Brother (*Princequillo-Hildene by Bubbling Over), full brother to Hill Prince, will probably go to stud in the spring of 1959 according to trainer J. H. (Casey) Hayes. A very consistent horse he placed first, second or third 34 times in four seasons earning $310,878. In winning the Bowie and Camden Handicaps he defeated both Dedicate and Bardstown. Mr. Hayes also expects that Willamette, winner of the 1957 Coaching Club American Oaks, and the sprinter Scansion will join the broodmare band next spring.

PLOTTER SOLD

Harry La Montagne, of Long Island, has sold through his trainer, E. Barry Ryan, Lexington, Ky., the good stakes winning mare Plotter, who accounted for the Top Flight and Vagrancy Handicaps, to Mrs. John Olin and Leslie Combs 2d.

KEENELAND YEARLING SALES

The 1958 Keeneland Fall Yearling Sales, conducted by the Breeders Sales Company, eclipsed all previous records for so large a number of yearlings when 667 head sold for $1,876,400 an average of $2,813. Topping the sale at $25,000 was a colt by Helioscope out of Spindrift by Johnstown, consigned by the Woodvale Farm of W. Alton Jones and purchased by Tommy Gentry as agent for an undisclosed buyer. It is interesting to note that in 1957 the Breeders Sales Company sold 933 yearlings, including both summer and autumn sales, for $4,614,100. In 1958 in the two sales, 1,024 head were sold for $5,309,000 - 91 more horses for $694,900 more money.

SYNDICATES AND LATE FOALS

In considering autumn sales of yearlings, columnist Oscar Otis quotes Humphrey Finney, president of the Fasig-Tipton Co., as follows: "I have noticed a definite trend toward the breeding of late foals. I ascribe this to the growing syndication of sires. If a shareholder in a good stallion has a mare that is late, or hard to get in foal, he sees that she does, if possible, no matter how late in the season. And these late foals are at their best at this time of year, not in late July or early August. I am all for high selectivity at the summer sales but I say that a good prospect can be obtained later in the season, too."

HIGH GUN TO TEXAS

Howard Rouse, manager of the King Ranch Farm, Lexington, Ky., has announced that High Gun (*Heliopolis-Rocket Gun, by Brazado), leading handicap horse of 1955, has been shipped to the King Ranch in Texas. Although microscopic tests of his sperm have shown high motility, High Gun sired only five foals in his first crop and has failed to get any mares in foal during the following two seasons.

FROM ABROAD

IRON LIEGE TO BOUSSAC

Calumet Farm's 4-year-old stallion Iron Liege (Bull Lea-Iron Maiden by War Admiral), winner of the 1957 Kentucky Derby and over $400,000, has been flown to France for stud duty at the establishment of Marcel Boussac, who has purchased him for an undisclosed sum.

MIDDLE PARK STAKES

Of the five runners for England's leading two-year-old event, in six furlongs Middle Park Stakes run on heavy going at Newmarket on October 14th, three of the runners had been bred in the U.S.A. It is doubtful if there have ever been this number of trans-Atlantic horses in the long history of the race.

The American-bred candidates comprised Mrs. John Hanes' English-trained Hieroglyph (*Heliopolis-Pocket Edition), and from France, Prince Aly Khan's Tai Toi (Shut Out-Tien Lan) and Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Dan Cupid (Native Dancer-Vixenette). Though they occupied second, third and fourth place, they were all beaten by the English-bred Masham, a son of the young stallion King of the Tudors. After Dan Cupid had led for more than half-way, he was collared about 1 1/2 furlongs out by Masham who had a length to spare at the post, with Hieroglyph another three-quarters of a length away third. P.T.-C.

LEADING IRISH THREE YEAR OLD FILLY BOUGHT

A recent purchase for export to America is the top-class Irish filly Owenello (Owen Tudor-Uccello). The winner at three years this season of the prestige Pretty Polly Stakes over 1 1/4 miles on the Curragh and other races, she also ran second in the Irish One Thousand Guineas, being beaten half a length by Prince Aly Khan's Butiaba. Competition was good and not until the last class, the pair class, was the Championship a sure thing for U-Know-Fair, owned by H. R. Belew of Jackson, Tennessee, and ridden by Cathy Pugh. The show was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Erb, Blackberry Hill, Memphis, Tennessee. Action started at 9 A.M. and lasted all day. Classes were so large that it was not until the last rays of sun disappeared behind the trees of Blackberry Hill that the final class ended. A. N.

a large hind, who jumped out between two of the Field going down a ride in the woods. After a most enjoyable lunch, given by Mr. & Mrs. Burton to mark the opening meet, we moved off in the afternoon to draw north of the highway. Hounds gave us a couple of short runs.

Saturday Oct. 4th. Ravenshoe. There was a good turnout for this meet in the best part of our hunting country. However in the morning, working north of Ravenshoe, we had what is most unusual, a complete blank. The possible reason - the five dollar bounty on foxes. We did meet several parties out hunting with guns. In the afternoon we drew south of Ravenshoe. Hounds soon found and after a brisk run marked their fox to ground on the edge of a wood. We found again and had a nice run with some good views of the second fox, who made a large circle and was then lost when he crossed the highway. It was a lovely day, the farmers are most friendly and helpful, and it is always a joy to be up in the Queensville country.

Saturday, Oct. 11th. Joint Meet of Toronto and North York and Eglinton Hunts at Mr. and Mrs. J. S. D. Tory's farm. There were about 80 in the Field and it was a great pleasure to have Eglinton up with us. In the morning there was a lot of activity with hounds working their fox round and round the very big coverts.

Monday, Oct. 13th, Field Day, Beverley Farm. Hunter Trials and Prince of Wales steeplechase. This was a most successful day in every way and full of colour and excitement.

Wednesday, Oct. 15th, Mulock Farms. It was a very soft and misty day. We went south over an awkward chicken coop and had quite a brisk hunt with some tricky fences and going. We then checked to gather hounds before moving on; someone looked up and saw the Canada geese, flying low because of the mist, and silent, in perfect formation. The Huntsman blew again for his hounds, and when the sound reached the geese the skein became completely unravelled for a few moments, then they were gone, south again into the mist. P.M.R.

Eglinton Hunter Trials

Brisk fall air - lovely sunshine and a new and most picturesque setting on the properties of W. J. Harmon, Allan Skaith and Ian Crookston made the Eglinton Hunter Trials on Oct. 5th a great success. Ed Bronson, chairman of the Hunter Trial committee, is to be well congratulated on the planning of the course which was in easy view yet afforded considerable variety of terrain with nice obstacles well placed to permit hunters to move on.

In addition to the handsome collection of challenge trophies for the usual annual events, the third and final competition for Eglinton's Master's Shields, Senior and Junior, were held on this day, and the Kindersley Trophy was awarded to the horse, qualified with Eglinton, that made the most points in the Senior Series.

As Dick Kindersley riding his father's Highball earned the most points, the trophy was awarded to the runner-up, Fred Porter on his new good going grey, Nimbus.

Eglinton's handsome pack of English Fox Hounds were paraded for the occasion and in all it made a most enjoyable and sporting day. Broadview

SMITHTOWN HUNT

Wide Water Farm.
Stony Brook, L. I., N. Y.
Established 1900.

Hunting Pace Event

The Smithtown Hunt hunting pace event is positively "jinxed" as far as the weather is concerned. After having been postponed three times last spring and once this fall, the third annual event was finally held on Nov. 2. However, even then, the cold day turned into a wet one just before the start.

The course, starting and ending at Stony Brook station was about five miles of typical Smithtown country - post and rail, wooded, with a fair number of open fields.

Dr. Arthur Fredericks and Edward J. Gould, Smithtown Masters, had established the pace standard in the morning. Their average time was 47 minutes 50 seconds. Some 10 pairs, 6 senior and 4 junior set out to see who could come closest to the Masters.

The pairs, starting with the seniors, left at three minute intervals and the first two couples returned about 45 minutes later, somewhat too fast. Then the third entry, Mrs. Roger Reynolds, whip, and Mrs. Franklin McColgin, on Ward Melville's Scotch Thorn and Topper respectively, arrived in 47.23. Just 27 seconds off the pace, it seemed that the Smithtown regulars would be repeating their victory of last year.

However, the last ones to leave, an experienced rider on a green horse and a newcomer on a most experienced mare, returned in 48.06, just 16 seconds more than the Masters. While Kathleen Rice was riding a green four-year-old Thoroughbred in his first season, her partner, Eileen Hale, in her first season, was riding her veteran hunter, Mrs. McGoo.

Mr. Carl Schornstein, of Meadow Brook, had a distinguished visitor as his partner, Miss Julia Hilton-Green of Limerick. It was Miss Hilton Green's first experience at riding over post and rail. While this presented no problem, she and her partner did become lost and turned in the slowest time.

The junior pairs, became 3 pairs and a trio when one girl's partner arrived too late. Lynn Wanamaker, with a new companion, Maureen Dineen, won for the second time in a row. Miss Wanamaker pion Trade Winds, while Miss Dineen rode Little River. Their time was 46.42.2. RESULTS:

Senior - 1. Kathleen Rice & Eileen Hale, 48.06.5; 2. Mrs. Roger Reynolds & Mrs. Franklin McColgin, 47.23; 3. Gen. Harry Disston & Harry DeLeyer, 45.40.2; 4. Gustave Mollet & Mrs. Melville Gorman, 45.28.5; 5. Nancy Rice & Sheila Keating, 53.38.2; 6. Carl Schornstein, & Julia Hilton-Green, 65.32.2.

LIGHTNING

Lightning, which destroys many farm animals and buildings to the extent of over a hundred million dollars annually is thus explained by the Lightning Protection Institute of Chicago.

"For every tick of the clock, 100 gigantic bolts of lightning bombard the earth. Each bolt contains hundreds of thousands of volts and as much as 340, 000 amperes.

"Countless positive electrical charges are always located in the earth. During electrical storm periods these charges are increased by induction from overhanging negative charges in clouds. The ground charges swarm all over each other in a frenzied attempt to reach a point as near as possible to the opposite charges above.

"When the attraction to sky charges becomes great enough, the 2 charges leap toward each other across the layer of non-conducting air and collide with a terrific explosion. Oddly enough, while the leader stroke travels from a negatively charged cloud, the more intense stroke comes from the electrified earth field of positive protons.

"Since wood, concrete, brick tile, and other building materials are very poor conductors of electricity, these substances hinder and resist the electrical flow.

"This resistance is so great that, as the electrical charges finally manage to push through, friction develops heat, which sets fire to inflammable materials and causes others to expand violently, crack, and fall apart.

"The lightning, in its erratic course, is seeking the path of least resistance between earth and sky. A properly installed lightning rod and grounding system provides that easy path.

PELHAM BRIDLES

Pelham bridles are perhaps not quite as popular as they were a few years ago, but I still see a great many of them, although they have ruined many good horses.

Some people, especially one-horse owners who think a lot of their horses, choose a Pelham as a bit that gives more control than a snaffle but which, they erroneously think, is kinder to the horse than a double bridle. It would seem logical to think that the single mouth-piece of the Pelham would be more comfortable than the two bits of the double bridle, but actually it is far more severe. It is supposed to have the same action as the double bridle of raising the horse's head on the bridoon rein and dropping the nose or flexing on the curb rein, but in practice it does not. If the horse is one that goes into his bridle, a Pelham will in short order lower his head only.

One has only to look about for horses that lug, bore and are overbent, to realize the danger of a Pelham, for nine times out of ten these will be wearing a Pelham or have at one time been ridden in a Pelham and been spoilt.

A Pelham may do little or no harm to a horse that is behind the bit and it may be the very bridle to use on horses that are naturally high headed or are star gazers, but with modern instructors putting more and more stress on "contact" and the increasing interest in Dressage for Combined Training competitions, the Pelham bridle has become dangerous for anybody except the rare few who have heaven-sent "good hands". Mrs. D. G. Rockwell

Shooting Hounds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter and stipulation appeared in a recent issue of "The Chase".)

Sometime ago I wrote you regarding a hound that was owned by G. E. Coats that was shot and killed. I also stated that on the 4th day of August there would be a hearing held before a Circuit Judge. Before the Judge arrived one attorney asked if all parties concerned could get together and draw up a stipulation without the Judge being present. This was agreed to.

Enclosed you will find the agreement between the two parties.

Sincerely yours,
Hiram Davis

The defendant further agrees to use every reasonable means of driving any such dog away before shooting.

5. It is further expressly stipulated and agreed that if any foxhound of other dog shall molest or worry any domestic animal or other livestock on premises owned by the defendant that he will before undertaking to destroy the same, notify the plaintiff and the plaintiff agrees to immediately act upon receiving such notice and if such condition shall not be immediately rectified defendant may protect his property in any lawful manner but nothing in this provision shall deprive the defendant of this statutory right to take any reasonable and necessary steps for the immediate protection of his domestic animals.

6. The parties further agree to conduct themselves in a neighborly manner in order to minimize any further or future difficulty.

7. This stipulation is entered into for the purpose of defining and agreeing to the course of future actions of the parties and is not an agreement as to any rights which any of the parties may have had in relation to any past incident and all parties retain all rights to bring and continue any actions based on past occurrences and to raise any defense which they may have to such an action.

N. Z. NATIONAL HORSE TRIALS

The National Horse Trials, principal event of the New Zealand Horse Society's year, were held near Sanson on Wednesday, July 16th. The difficult cross country course included as its final jump "The Fishtail", a V-shaped structure strongly made from massive rails, which could be taken at its apex as a single or at its extremities as a double, the respective spreads being four feet and 21 feet. Winner of the Forest Gate Trophy was Mr. Alec Hatful, riding Timber, which he jointly owns with Miss J. Bennett. Mr. Hatful rode no less than 3 horses in the trials. Second by only three-quarters of a point was Miss Susan Talbot on Limonite. Miss K. Barrett on Vanity Fair won the Swarbrick Trophy for the highest dressage score.

Horse of the Year Show

The Horse of the Year Show wound up the season in British Columbia for 1958. The Pacific National Exhibition livestock barn was filled with the best of B. C.'s horses. To qualify for the show only horses who had won a first, second, third or fourth ribbon at a recognized C. H. S. A. show during 1958 were eligible to enter. The show was judged by Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobsen of Montreal. Mr. Jacobsen is president of the Canadian Horse Shows Association. The small hack was won by a newcomer to the show ring, Gahzi, an Arabian mare. The large hack and hack championship was won by the Thoroughbred Alouette, owned by Mrs. C. B. McClure. Both were trained and ridden by Miss A. Ffrench-Mullen of the Maple Ridge Equitation Centre. Miss J. Dean won the English and Western Equitation class on her mother's Anglo-Arab, Al Kahira. The winner of the Jumper of the Year Competition was somewhat of a surprise - namely Suwanne Sioux who thereby broke her maiden status. She is owned by Miss M. Wallace and was trained and ridden by Mr. P. Boal of Meadowbrook Riding School. The leading lightweight hunter, Copper Cal, also won the Hunter Championship. She is owned by Mrs. N. S. Wright and was ridden and trained by Mrs. G. Mills. The Medium Dressage test was judged by Mr. and Mrs. Jacobsen and Mr. J. de Boschan of Cloverdale and was won with a nice performance by Miss I. Fischer-Credo riding Gordina owned by Mrs. S. T. R. Sarjeant. V.Z.

James River

Hurricane warnings were up from Hatteras to the Virginia Capes, and out of town entries for the James River Horse Show were doubtful. While Helene, a not so nice lady was battering the Carolinas Saturday night, show chairman Kenny Taylor said the show scheduled for Sunday would not be called off. The courageous horsemen who ventured to Hampton on Sunday were well rewarded with blue skies and a cool crisp autumn day.

Barbara Batterton's Over She Goes, not only clinched the large pony championship at James River, but according to points, the large pony championship of Virginia. Kathleen Watson's Snow Dancer, nip and tuck with Over She Goes throughout the season was reserve champion.

Having a field day in the open jumper division, Jackie Blair rode Richard S. Reynolds Jr's Montego to the championship and her own Mr. Sandman to reserve. As if that wasn't enough for one day, Jackie rode her Ridgecrest to the Green Working Hunter Tri-color.

Margurite Taylor rode her Taylor Maid to victory in the James River Hunt Perpetual Trophy class. This was a big win for the gray mare, which had been brought up from pasture after being turned out for four years. K.C.B.

Architect's model of Pittsburgh Civic Auditorium shows the spectacular stainless steel dome in retracted position. The roof consists of eight sections - two stationary and six movable. They can be opened or closed at the press of a button.

All-weather auditorium, planned for the city of Pittsburgh, will be covered by a retractable stainless steel roof, the largest of its type in the world. This architect's model shows the roof in its closed position.

All Weather Horse Show Stadium

Twelve thousand people are watching a horse show in the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Civic Auditorium. It begins to drizzle. A man presses a button. Quietly, a stainless steel dome slides into position. No rain. The show continues, everybody's happy.

That, in a nutshell, is how things are going to be when the $20 million Pittsburgh Civic Auditorium, now under construction, is completed.

A key structure in the city's ambitious civic redevelopment program, the Auditorium, including the mall and parking area, will occupy some 20 acres in the heart of town. During the year, it will play host to concerts, exhibits, business meetings, the Civic Light Opera, musical shows, rodeos, horse shows, tennis matches, water shows, political and civic meetings. An adaptable seating arrangement will accommodate from 7500 to 14,000 people, depending on the event.

Why stainless steel? For one thing, it's just about the most weatherproof metal there is. Stainless steel finds uses in the most corrosive atmospheres - salt air as well as industrial. It is corrosion resistant all the way through, not just on the surface. It is strong. It is good looking. It has an extremely long service life.

Glenville Farms One-Day Event

The second Combined Training event in Ontario this fall was held at J. Harold Crang's Glenville Farms near Newmarket. There were not quite as many horses as at the McGuinness Farm Horse Trials, but was a good day with very good competition.

Two horses were shown in the Senior Dressage which did not go on for the other two phases and these were the winner, Pepper Knowes, owned and ridden by Mrs. C. Nelson Smith and Janus, which was second for owner-rider J. C. Cakebread Sr.

The Cross-Country course, always of paramount interest, was laid out for last year's competition, commencing on the farm of R. H. Rough. A great deal of it could be seen from Glenville Farms' hill as the contestants approached out of the distance, winding and looping back and forth up the shoulders of the valley and crossing and re-crossing the creek and side road.

Janet "Dinny" Burns was the very popular winner of the Open Test, riding her horse Steelworker, which did a masterful job to earn for his rider the Piernogorski Trophy. Jim Elder came through well to finish second on J. Harold Crang's grey Irish horse, Churchill, which is available to the Canadian Team. Tom Gayford came through, if not so well, to be third on Donald Umphrey's S'no Fair, last year's winner.

Tom Gayford won the Novice on R. H. Rough's Terrific, outscoring Jim Elder on Yankee Wonder and brother Norman Elder on Flying Fox. Robert Elder, Joint Master of the Toronto and North York Hunt, has a sizeable string of more than useful horses. Show-goers are sometimes surprised to see one of the Elder brothers aboard an unfamiliar horse that doesn't perform as if it were green. This is likely one well known to members of the hunting field. The same show-goers might be surprised to see a well known open jumper like Yankee Wonder coming out for a Combined Training Event, but all the Elder horses and Jim and Norman too, are versatile and a threat in any sort of competition.

Winner in the Junior division was Gail Heath with Little Boots with a good Dressage score, one point better than that of Jack Wallace's Robin Hood - but Lyne Kerr with Sugarfoot came up on her combined score to defeat Jack Wallace for second.

Genesee Valley Hunt

Horse Trials

Raw wintry winds were featured at the annual Genesee Valley Hunt Horse Trials this year, but a little thing like the weather didn't seem to affect the spirits of horses and riders. On the whole the performances were fine and certainly the calibre of riding in The Valley has improved steadily. Some improvements had been made in the cross country phase and the course presented some interesting mental hazards, the drop jump had a few competitors a bit nervous but most of the horses jumped this well with few refusals.

The dressage scores were lower in the Senior division than in the past but two factors may have been responsible for this: (1) brisk winds may have caused tension on the part of the horses and (2) many of the adults seemed too hurried during the test and the various gait transitions were too rapid. Many good rounds were seen during the cross country phase, the horses were fit and the majority completed the vigorous mile and three-fourths course, over 22 obstacles, in good time. The Junior course was about a mile and here again the Juniors completed the course in the allotted time.

For many the straw that broke the camel's back was the stadium jumping. It was most interesting to note that it was the show horses which placed in the Junior division, but this was not the case in the Senior division.

Gypsy Hill owned and ridden by Mrs. D. Davis was much admired for his brilliant jumping and clocklike precision. Skilly, owned and ridden by Larry McGuinness was high scorer in the dressage and maintained this steady lead through the other phases.

McGuinness Farm

The setting, the courses, friendly rivalry and Maj. Larry McGuinness' hospitality have made this show an annual outing greatly looked forward to by many Ontario sporting folk, especially aspirants to the Olympic Team and Juniors. The Harris family from Rochester, N. Y. added an international flavour with their Hideaway Stable entries.

All events had Junior divisions but the Juniors were also permitted to enter the Senior events and in some cases Juniors did better in the Senior events than in their own.

The F.E.L. jumper event was the feature attraction and included on the course a big single bank and a water jump. These grounds are the only ones we know of in Canada that have a permanent course with a single bank. Horses and riders tackled this bravely and well, but most had had an opportunity to school over it during the Canadian Equestrian Training Center's courses this past summer. Winner of this event was Churchill, a big grey Irish import, owned by J. Harold Crangs Glenville Farms. Jim Elder rode him. This is one of the horses under consideration for the Olympic Team. He has never been shown prior to this year but has hunted a lot.

The Junior International was won by Moffat Dunlop on his brilliant little Thoroughbred Dilmon with Angus Pickford second on his Robbie Burns (green but a horse of very considerable promise that could go far).

250 Anniversary Parade

The Goldens Bridge Hounds participated in the parade on Saturday, September 20th, 1958, in commemoration of the 250th Anniversary of the founding of Ridgefield, Connecticut.

The Members of the Hunt portrayed the visit of Generals Washington and Lafayette with their staff officers to Ridgebury on September 18th, 1780. According to a letter from Washington, he wrote "I shall be at Hartford September 20th, to meet the Count de Rochambeau and the Chevalier de Ternay. The Marquis De La Fayette, General Knox and the Commanding Officer of the Corps of Engineers (M. de Gouvion) will accompany me. I shall have an escort of twelve or fifteen dragoons". Also on this trip were Washington's aides Alexander Hamilton, Major Samuel Shaw, and Major James McHenry. Washington and his staff spent the night in Ridgebury, and dined at the Ensign Samuel Keeler Tavern.

Ridgebury is that district of the Town of Ridgefield where several Members of the Hunt have their homes and it is some of our best hunting country. The George Washington Highway goes through Ridgebury and formed the main line of communications for the Continental forces during the Revolution between New England and New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia. General Rochambeau and the French Troops encamped in Ridgebury on the McKeon farm on their way to join Washington in Westchester County. The combined forces then crossed the Hudson and marched south to Yorktown, Virginia where they defeated Cornwallis and the British Army and Navy, with the help of the French Fleet.

Goldens Bridge Members were dressed in the uniforms of the Continental Army blue and buff as shown in the official U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps records. The following participated; Dr. Jere Lord, as George Washington; MFH Daniel M. McKeon, General Lafayette; Capt. Clifford Zieger, General Knox;

Mr. Walter Tode, M. de Gouvion; Mrs. Carl Franken, Alexander Hamilton; Mrs. John Graham, Major Samuel Shaw; Mrs. Daniel M. McKeon, Major James McHenry; Miss Meredith Dickinson Parish, Brigadier General Philemon Dickinson. (Meredith is a direct descendant of Philemon Dickinson, who bred the gray horse that Washington used "Blueskin").

The Dragoons were; Mrs. Jere Lord, Dr. John Graham, Sylvester Pointkowski, Miss Muffie McKeon, Miss Sheila McKeon, Miss Carol Leary and Frank Tierney.

Cerebral Palsy

The ninth annual Cerebral Palsy Horse Show was given for the second year in a row at the Van Saun County Park in Paramus, N. J. Without a doubt this show improves each year and shows an even more promising future. The show grounds are made available to the committee by the Bergen County Park Commission, and their cooperation in meeting all the committee's requirements is one of the major factors contributing to the show's success.

All the divisions were well filled especially the children's classes and the green working hunters. The open jumper division was a little light, but the consistently good performances turned in by those present made all the classes exciting to watch.

Snowman, the good grey jumper owned and ridden by Harry de Leyer, continued his winning ways by adding another championship to his already formidable list. The closest anyone got to his 29 points was Volco's Pierre, ridden by Sonny Brooks, with 21 points.

In the regular working hunter division, Chappaqua and Flint Hill from the stables of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Paxson accounted for 5 blues and 3 seconds. These good going horses were ridden by Mrs. Joseph Ferguson and Allan King, Jr.

Maple Ridge One Day Horse Trial

The 2nd annual Maple Ridge Equitation Centre One Day Horse Trials, the leading event of this kind in British Columbia, were held this year on September 21st at the Centre, near Haney, B.C., and were a great success.

As was the case last year, the outstanding feature was the excellence of the cross-country course. This represented months of hard work and was laid out in the farming country surrounding the Centre, some thirty miles from Vancouver, where fields, woods, a river and dykes provide plenty of variety. The obstacles were well constructed and cleverly fitted into the surroundings, to present a natural appearance, and good use was made of irregularities in the terrain and existing obstructions.

The course, which was just over two miles long with 24 obstacles, appeared on first inspection to be rather too severe deep water, where she turned upside down with her unfortunate rider underneath. However, after coming to the surface the rider was fished out of the water and, remounting, continued on her sodden way.

Organization for the Cross-Country Test also was good. Army cadets with walkie talkie equipment were stationed near each obstacle and reported scores to the central scorers, as well as keeping the scorer and spectators at each jump advised of the progress of approaching horses.

In the Dressage Test, held in the morning, the Arabian stallion Ferishal, owned by Mrs. M. Trethewey and ridden by Miss Clare Webb, was first with 103 penalty points. This was no surprise, as this versatile horse had won the Western Canadian Dressage Championship on the previous day. In second place with 128 constructed, being substantial and inviting looking, but the ring was small for a course of this kind. However, performances on the whole were good. Ferishal had a clear round, whereas Lady Conn had 20 penalty points and Nuri-Imp 10, the final results for the Trials being: 1st Ferishal with 104.5 penalty points, 2nd Lady Conn with 158, 3rd Nuri-Imp with 173.6 and 4th the Half-Arab gelding Khamiseh, owned and ridden by Mr. Ricky Maynard with 189.15, the last named horse doing well in the Cross-Country and Stadium Jumping Tests.

It is interesting to note that the riders of the first three horses, Miss Clare Webb and Miss April Ffrench-Mullen, are both from Ireland and were pupils of Col. T. H. Dudgeon in that country. Miss Ffrench-Mullen also put in a year or two working for Col. Alex Sysin in California before coming to the Maple Ridge Equitation Centre. Soapey Sponge a test, several very formidable looking drop fences contributing in no small measure to this impression. Actually, however, experience showed that the course did not require any great jumping ability, but rather the necessary boldness to attempt the more difficult looking jumps, plus a reasonable degree of fitness, as the heights and spreads of all the obstacles were well within the abilities of the horses entered. The fences were all as rigid as it was possible to make them. Most of the horses and riders had had very little experience in cross-country competitions of this type.

Fortunately there were few falls, the most spectacular of these being when the Anglo-Arab mare Lady Claire, ridden by Miss Pam Ansen, took the slide into the river too fast and jumped over the small obstacle at the bottom right out into the

was the Half-Arab gelding Nuri-Imp, owned by Mrs. Max Zimmermann and ridden by Miss April Ffrench-Mullen and in third place with 154 was the young Anglo-Arab mare Lady Conn, owned by Mrs. M. Trethewey and ridden by Miss Clare Webb.

In the Cross-Country Test, held in the afternoon, Lady Conn had an excellent round and, in spite of a refusal at the bank, finished in first place with 16 bonus points. Ferishal came second with 1.5 penalty points for overtime, thus managing to retain his lead, and Nuri-Imp collected 35.6 penalty points, including one refusal, and dropped from second to third place at this stage of the Trials.

The Stadium Jumping was held immediately following the Cross-Country Test. The obstacles for this course were well ran away with the division. He wound up with 18 points, and his nearest contender with 5 points was Mona Lisa, ridden by Tom Florio.

The favorable comments about the show made by many of the exhibitors bear out the fact that this is rapidly becoming one of New Jersey's best. F.T.

Lake Oswego Hunt

Entries at this show were much larger than they have been for the past two years, with a field of eight competing for the coveted C. R. Miller Perpetual Memorial Trophy over the long Oswego hunter trials course on Sunday morning.

Young Kevin Freeman again demonstrated his skill by riding his green horse Light's Out to victory in this event.

Oregon horsemen can well be proud of this sixteen-year-old boy who devotes most of his time outside the school room to horses, showing, and efforts to improve his horsemanship.

An interesting coincidence resulted when the jumper, Valhalla, owned by the Highlands School of Riding, and the hunter, Winit, owned by Mr. Rudy Gross, repeated their respective wins of the Oregon State Fair by picking up the tri-colors again.

Mr. Gordon "Don" Wilson pleased the spectators with his win in the green hunters over the outside course, on his good horse, Casey. This pair seem to have fun and their relaxed manner is a pleasure to watch.

One Day Test at Nashville

The gently rolling and flat fields of Nashville's Warner Parks were blessed with the gift of a perfect October sun for the sixth annual One Day Horse Test directed by Miss Margaret Lindsley Warden, sponsored by the Horse Sense column of the Nashville Tennessean, and held in connection with the Horse Sense Riding Tournament. With the final totals, Misses Alice Newbern on Dutch Treat and Joan Mooney on Red Bud emerged the victors in the Junior and Senior divisions in this, the oldest annual One Day Event in existence in America today. Col. E. F. Thomson, one-time Olympic rider and coach headed the judging, he was ably assisted by H. Stewart Treviranus, Technical Advisor for Combined Training to the U.S.E.T.; W. D. Haggard, III, candidate for the U.S.E.T. for the Pan American Games in 1959; and others.

Some twenty horses were entered this year, all but six riders and eight horses being in the Junior division, (16 years and under). An additional six horses competed in the special "Dressage Only" class - won by Miss Judy Kinnard on Handsome. Contestants came primarily from Middle Tennessee, with four entrants in the Junior division coming from Germantown (near Memphis).

The Dressage phase started at 8:00 with a hint of frost on the ground and a chill in the air. The Seniors rode the A.H.S.A. 1958 Test A-2, and the Juniors, the A-1. The riders, as a whole, were not up to par, little emphasis having been placed on such fundamentals as suppleness, impulsion, and correct transitions. Miss Polly Peach, veteran of three National Rallies on Playgirl, won the Senior division with a nice round. The Junior division was won by Miss Denetia McCormick from Germantown on Grumble Jones.

As soon as contestants were through with their Dressage, they were started on Roads and Trails, which was shortened this year to approximately a mile and a half - to be completed in ten minutes. This presented no problem, as almost all contestants were early (no penalty or bonus points for under time).

The Cross Country was held, as usual, on the infield of the Iroquois Memorial Steeplechase course and consisted of 18 jumps in 2 1/5 miles to be completed at the rate of 492 yards per minute or 8 minutes. The jumps, at 3' for Juniors and 3'6" for Seniors, were of varied designs, including: a splash, drop, ditch, trash pile, road closed, wall, split rails, logs, and others. The 24' "pen" caused the most trouble. It seems that many riders had failed to walk the course beforehand, or had at least failed to plan what to do at that particular jump. Consequently, instead of turning inside the pen and going out the marked panel to the right, many riders, approaching too fast, sailed straight out. Others, lacking control, found the turn impossible the first try and some took three and four tries to get through successfully. One contestant even fell off twice, and almost failed to get her horse out before the next horse came through. Quite amusing to note, however, was the fact that, by the time 10 or 12 horses had gotten through, the word had evidently been passed around as to how to approach the problem, and the performances were much better. Carrying a watch was forbidden and recorded times were quite varied, proving that the riders needed more experience in the judging of pace.

The third and final phase, the Stadium Jumping, held at the show grounds on lush Bermuda grass, got under way around 4:00. The F.E.I. Rules for Jumping Competitions were used. The course, of modified Olympic obstacles, was not a difficult one, as evidenced by the number of clean rounds. Here too, the lack of planning on the part of some riders was clear. Most riders needed to keep their heads up and their eyes on the next jump. And some got into trouble on the turns. It was good to see, however, that there wasn't a single refusal on the 10' water jump (included only in the Senior course), as opposed to several in years past.

Twenty-two year old Joan Mooney, who was leading the field with the most points in the Senior division before the Jumping, thrilled the crowd with a clear round to keep her lead and win for the second straight year aboard her Quarter Horse, Red Bud. Second came Albert Wheeler with Powder Horn. This pair went to Colorado this summer to compete in the Wofford Cup, but were unable to, due to an injury to Powder Horn. Alice Newbern and Dutch Treat won the Cross Country and had a clear round to nose out Mable Crabtree on Top Seargent, and Gayle Lee on Fraulein.

All in all, there were few examples of BAD riding throughout the day. As the last horse finished the last jump, and spectators noticed that the sun was almost set behind a clump of trees, participants and onlookers alike agreed that it had been a day well spent. They will remember the first Dressage rider and her mount, who clearly felt the effects of the crisp air; the spectacular performance of the Trace Field Drill Team; the presentation of the High Score Awards to Equitation, Hack, and other Middle Tennessee champions; and the atmosphere of good sportsmanship - all on October 11, 1958. Cahaba Joint Rally

Working from the ground up the Cahaba Pony Club of Birmingham, Alabama held a 2'6" (height of jumps) rally for junior and less experienced riders most of whom had never jumped in competition or attended a regional rally. The rally, held October 18 at Mede Cahaba Stable, benefit of the Birmingham Humane Society, consisted of dressage, cross country and stadium jumping events plus points deducted for bad horsemanship, such as failure to cool out after cross country or careless tack and equipment.

The judges were Mrs. James Greene of Goodwater, Mr. Carson Whitson of Talledega and Mr. Leonard Woody of Birmingham and the officials were members of the two competing pony clubs who had previously represented their clubs at regional rallies. They did a splendid and conscientious job as jump watchers, stable management judges, clerks and messengers. The results showed that there were many unsuspected capable riders "in the ranks" and the Cahaba club plans to make it an annual event to encourage its junior members.

Five teams of four riders competed for four places in each event and Champion and Reserve Champion team awards.

SUMMARIES:

Dressage - 1. Cahaba Pink Team, Carol DeArman (captain); Patsy Morrison (top dressage score); Rainer Lamar; Hill Curry; 2. Birmingham Pony Clubs - 1. Cross Country - 1. Birmingham; 2. Cahaba Green; Malette Hays (Captain); Dorothy Beeler; Jo Simpson; Ann Perryman; 3. Cahaba Blue; 4. None - the other teams were eliminated and received no awards in this division but it was decided not to eliminate them from the final awards.

Stadium jumping - 1. Birmingham. Others were eliminated. Champion was the fine Birmingham team and Reserve Champion was the Cahaba Pink team.

Upper Valley Pony Club

Although the U.V.P.C. Junior Show was held at a later date this year and entries were fewer due to the lateness, this season, Mr. Heber England, District Commissioner of the Montpelier Pony Club, officiated as Judge with his son Sandy England, who has recently returned from Germany.

The highlight of the day, as far as the children were concerned, was the added Parent Class. A large entry of Parents turned out in varied attire and mounted on a unique assemblage of horses - some on their children's ponies. Another innovation this year was three couples of Hounds and a litter of puppies which the Hall's kindly brought and paraded for the benefit of the children.

Caroline, with her owner-rider Martha Daniels.

Caroline

She started off as a little black mare in a livery stable in South Carolina. Actually, you've got to start back farther than that and say that she really started by being foaled up in the hill country of North Carolina. Her mother was probably a nice, gentle mare with a little Morgan Blood in her and a little draft horse too. Her grandfather was "Old Red" (Mano' War) and her father was Warcraft. The kids in Camdem, South Carolina liked her. They called her Dutchess and she took pretty good care of them in the hunting field.

She came up to Minnesota in the spring of 1948 in a boxcar. There were nine polo ponies in the car with her. That first winter in Minnesota an accident almost finished her; while in pasture she was badly kicked. One inch higher or one inch lower and those important jumping ligaments and tendons would have been severed. Instead, she healed up and had a nice sewed-up patch that you can still see on the seat of her pants. She didn't jump in a very fancy way in those days. In fact she'd figured out a way to take those little children over a jump that made her look as if she were measuring the jump with her chest and then using those big rear muscles to climb over.

Then the day came when she had to mend her ways or get out. She'd had three bad and dangerous falls. Her trainer had some hope and some faith in her and in the way she was put together. He went to work. She was eager and willing to learn. As an unknown little black mare, won her first Championship in the late summer of 1952 at the last of the Ramsey County Fair Society Horse Shows. Her owners were so surprised that they got there late for the hack-off and a substitute rider had to be found to put her around the ring to win.

In the seven years that Caroline campaigned she won 10 championships including every hunter horse show in Minnesota; 7 Reserve Championships; and 130 ribbons, including 53 blues. She didn't get a chance to show out of state very much. When she did, people remembered her. She won the Children's Hunter Championship at Lake Forest, Illinois in 1954. At Milwaukee in 1955 she won the Children's Working Hunter class against 75 contenders. In 1956 at St. Louis she won the coveted Junior Foxhunter's Challenge Trophy.

In 1958, at the age of 18, she started the season by winning the Championship at the North Oaks Show. At the 1958 Minnesota State Fair she won the blue ribbon on Wednesday night in the large Handy Hunter Class. Then on Thursday night in the Working Hunter Stake Class her career ended. She came over the sixth jump and her right foreleg gave way as she landed. In spite of a bowed tendon, her heart and her three remaining legs took her home "clean" over the last two jumps.

Caroline - black mare, 15:3 hands, by Warcraft out of an unknown dam, born in 1940, is being retired. She is the horse that every stable, if it is lucky, hopes to have just once.

Caroline will have a nice home, Maybe

A and B Candidates

To National Examiners, Visiting Commissioners, District Commissioners and all other Officials of the United States Pony Clubs: -

The President has noticed in various parts of the country considerable difference in manner of grading A's and B's. It must be emphasized that in order to become an A a candidate must not only be of almost Olympic prospect calibre as far as riding ability goes, but must also be capable of running a stable and of teaching and judging. The latter requirements sometimes seem to have been neglected.

It must be borne in mind also that to be a B the candidate must have reached a responsible stage of development, where you would be willing to turn over to him your favorite hunter for two weeks, or a season. This, of course, implies riding ability, knowledge of horse care, and responsibility in the hunting field; all requiring a degree of maturity which is frequently lacking in good C's who ride well, and yet who are not quite ready to be promoted.

Another point for D. C.'s to bear in mind is not to suggest a child for a test unless the D. C. is sure that the child is really ready. Otherwise, not only the examiner's time is wasted, but the child is exposed to needless discouragement. Equally, it is important to remember that when a C has reached the necessary degree of maturity, that child should be advanced to a B. Unless this is done, when sent away from home to compete at a Rally, a mature C Team offers unfair competition. The same holds true in the case of D's. Adherence to the Syllabus in the Instructor's Hand Book is the best guide.

Long Island Junior

The Long Island Junior Horse Show was somewhat unique in having just two divisions, horsemanship and jumpers, but with a novice section in each.

Horsemanship was unusual in that each of four championships was awarded on the basis of points won in three classes. The open under 14 was a runaway for Celia Rumsey who won all three classes. Open over 14 was a far different story with two children at 14 points and two at 13. The top two Lucy Cullman and Susan Schier, rode off their tie and the judge's nod went to the former. Wendy Lehman and Ann Erdmann accounted for all the blues and reds in the novice 14-18 with Wendy having two blues and one red and Ann just the opposite.

Philip Bonacorsa Jr.'s ever consistent junior jumper Continental Lady added another tri-color to her list in the open jumper division. Jane Richmond's Laughing Boy, a newcomer to the division, showed great promise for the future as she placed reserve.

The novice jumpers were almost entirely from the host Thomas School and they in turn garnered a lion's share of the ribbons including the championship and reserve with Tiger and Misdemeanor.

Potomac Polo Season

Organized only last year on a shoe-string and a prayer, the Potomac Polo Club, of Trivilah, Md., has just recently concluded an astonishingly successful season.

The club, which includes a number of players who had never swung a mallet before 1957, won 14 of 17 matches against outside opposition. Highlights of the season were upsets at the expense of the touring Anahuac Club of Mexico City, Brandywine and Blind Brook. Other victories were scored over Warrenton, Lancaster and the Washington Squires.

The Potomac club was organized last year on a cooperative basis, with all 20 members sharing the expenses. The arena itself, measuring 150 yards by 75 yards, was constructed on a farm owned by one of the players, Dick Moran. It is located in the heart of the rolling Potomac Hunt country, about a 40-minute drive from downtown Washington.

Matches were played every Friday night under lights. The sport was promoted as "polo under the stars" and quickly attracted a large and enthusiastic following. This year spectator enthusiasm was manifested by crowds as large as 4,500. The result is that, in one short year, arena polo is firmly established on the Washington sporting scene. The public seems to like the fast arena style of play, at the same time spending a pleasant evening in the cooler country air.

The Potomac ponies, most of which were former cutting horses from the Southwest, are either owned privately or leased through the club. Frank Willson, a powerful hitter who formerly played with the Washington Squires, served as player-coach this season. The team's high scorer was Hap Puelicher, a Lincoln, Va., dairy farmer who learned his polo in Milwaukee.

Only a fraction of the remaining players had ever played the game before last year, but virtually all of them had had some experience with horses, either in the show ring or hunt field.

The annual inter-club tournament for the Potomac Perpetual Trophy was won by Rockville, which defeated Kenwood, 6-5, in a sudden-death overtime. The Rockville squad included Comdr. Bob Monahan, Frank Stallone, Tommy Dowd and Jeff Davis.

Virginia University Polo

Ed Lovern

The University of Virginia Polo Association, although playing some excellent polo, took too long to get started and lost to the powerful Potomac Polo Club 9-6 at Brook Hill Farm. Five goals by Potomac's Frank Wilson plus a 5-0 lead at the close of the second chukker proved to be too much for the hard playing Virginia team.

Wilson, rated at two goals and playing number two for the visitors, opened the match with two quick scores. Joe Smoke, at number one for Potomac, followed with a long shot through the uprights. The Virginians led by Donn Gerst managed to bring the ball into Potomac territory several times but couldn't seem to find the goal. Smoke scored again in the second chukker, and Wilson shoved in his third point as the bell closed the period.

Harvey Smith, Virginia's number one, opened the scoring for his team in the third chukker taking the ball at mid-field and nursing it through the posts. Bob Monahan, ranked at one goal, slammed in a long shot for Potomac leaving them ahead 6-1 at the half-time.

In the beginning of the fourth period, Monahan brought the ball to the Virginia goal where it was tapped in by Wilson. Then the Virginia club came to life as Doug Nichol, a one-goaler, scored from fifty yards out on a powerful forehand.

THE CHRONICLE

Gerst took control of the play next and dribbled the length of the field setting up another long shot by Nichol. With expert team play Potomac worked their way up, to the Virginia goal where Smoke scored the point.

The Potomac scored in the fifth period for the last time as Smoke set up another goal which Monahan made good with a short push. Another aggressive drive by captain Donn Gerst resulted in another point by Nichol. Virginia played desperately in the final chukker and seemed determined to even the score as Gerst slammed a high, hard goal over the posts. Smith took over next bringing the ball up the center of the field and scoring single-handed. The game ended as Monahan stopped the ball in another Virginia onslaught.

INTER-COLLEGIATE TEAM ABROAD

The low-goal British tournaments received a most welcome fillip this past summer by the visit of an American Inter-Collegiate team, initiated by Cambridge University. They brought three or four ponies to add to those sportingly lent them. Professional training was evident in the full straight swings of their shots on either side of their ponies. This popular team won the six-goal tournament played at Cirencester during County Cup week, and then went on to the six-goal Holden White tournament at Cowdray in Goodwood Week.

Though favourites, they met their match in a semi-final against the Cheshire Millington team. A good show by this northern club was reinforced by their second team winning the other semi-final. Millington won the homely dog-fight of a final with the young players on both sides going were well. The American team was: No. 1, G. Weymouth (Yale); No. 2, P. Baldwin (Cornell); No. 3, R. Riemschneider (Virginia); and back, S. Woolaway (Cornell).

They asked to keep the cup they had won at Cirencester, presented by the late Gerald Balding, and suggested that they should present a challenge cup in its place for a low-goal tournament, and that players in England might like to give a replica of it to America, to be played for on the same terms. Two very handsome cups were selected, to be called The Gerald Balding Memorial Cups.

BRITISH POLO HANDICAPS

The Handicap Committee of the Hurlingham Polo Association has recently revised British Handicaps on the basis of play during the past season. At 6 goals is John Lakin of Cowdray Park; at 5, Col. Humphrey Guinness of the Household Brigade; and at 4, the Duke of Edinburgh of Windsor, John Lucas of Hertfordshire and Alex Harper and Charles Smith-Ryland, both of Cowdray. Forty-three new players were advanced to handicap ranking.

BOOKS

STUD MANAGERS HANDBOOK. BASED ON LECTURES GIVEN AT THE STUD MANAGERS COURSES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY, LEXINGTON, KY., PUBLISHED 1958 BY THE STUD MANAGERS COURSE, P. O. BOX 1520, LEXINGTON, KY., pp. 213, $3.00.

This selection of material, especially compiled and edited for the managers of horse farms, is based on lectures and other material presented at the various Stud Managers Courses held at the University of Kentucky in 1951-1952-1953-1954 under the auspices of the Grayson Foundation, Inc., the American Thoroughbred Breeders Association, Inc., and the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. The various chapters were chosen as providing a well-rounded fund of information for the working farm manager, and particularly for those located in areas where specialized veterinary assistance is not readily available. However, the qualifications of the various contributors is such that any horseman, wherever located, will find much useful material.

Most of the chapters in this book have appeared in earlier books of Stud Managers Course lectures, but they all have been revised by their authors and have been brought up to date. In general, the lectures divide themselves into two categories, the first having to do with the care of horses and the second with the cure of their ailments. Under the first category we have: "Feeding Horses" by Dr. F. C. Sager; "Broodmares: Maiden, Barren, Foaling; Teasing Records" by W. R. McGee, D.V.M.; "The Care, Feeding and Management of Stallions" by W. R. McGee, D.V.M.; "Stallion Records" by Clarkson Beard; "Pedigrees" by J. A. Estes; "The Elements of Genetics" by Dewey G. Steele; "The Care of Foals and Weanlings" by Dr. Horace N. Davis; "Preparation of Yearlings for Sale" by John A. Bell III; "Breaking Yearlings" by John T. Ward; "Shipping Horses" by Humphrey S. Finney; "Training Horses" by Duval A. Headley; and "Anatomy, Care, and Trimming of Feet" by Dr. D. L. Proctor.

The lectures having to do with ailments are: "Lameness" by Dr. A. H. Davidson; "Farm Hygiene" by Dr. W. W. Dimock; "Disease Prevention" by Dr. F. C. Sager; "Hemolytic Anemia and Icterus of Newborn Foals" by E. R. Doll; "Viral Respiratory Diseases" by E. R.

Doll; and "Common Horse Parasite Problems and Their Control" by Dr. J. H. Drudge. A. M-S.

THE INTERNATIONAL RACING BOOK OF 1957. EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY THE INTERNATIONAL RACING ASSOCIATION, 52 AVENIDA RIO BRANCO, RIO DE JANEIRO, BRAZIL, 1958.

This booklet covers the activities of the International Racing Association from 1950 to 1957. Its principal accomplishment to date has been the setting up of a hemispherical weight-for-age scale, the necessity for which is based on the fact that horses foaled north of the Equator are foaled in the first part of the year and south of the Equator, in the second part of the year. This scale has been adopted by the French, Brazilian and Italian Jockey Clubs. The Association has also selected 20 races of an international character divided into three circuits. The European circuit includes: Coronation Cup (England), Ascot Gold Cup (England), Gran Premio Di Milano (Italy), Eclipse Stakes (England), King George VI & Queen Elizabeth Stakes (England), Grand Handicap D'Ostende (Belgium), Grosser Preis Von Baden (Germany), Oslo Cup (Norway), Prix de L'Arc de Triomphe (France), Premio del Jockey Club (Italy), Premio Roma (Italy). In the North American circuit are: Santa Anita Handicap, Hollywood Gold Cup, Washington D. C. International, while the South American circuit comprises: Grande Premio Ramirez (Uruguay), Grande Premio Municipal (Uruguay), Grande Premio de Sao Paulo (Brazil), Grande Premio Brasil (Brazil), Grande Premio Simon Bolivar (Venezuela), Gran Premio Carlos Pellegrini (Argentina). United States members of the Association include Tyson Gilpin, J. A. Estes, Walter J. Thomson and Mr. and Mrs. John deBlois Wack.

RACE HORSE TRAINING. BY ROBERT W. COLLINS (VENTURE ALL), LEXINGTON, KY., THE BLOOD-HORSE, (1938), 1958, pp. 312.

Robert W. Collins, brought up on a saddle horse farm in Central Kentucky, made a fortune in oil which enabled him to indulge his boyhood ambition of owning and training race horses. In this he was remarkably successful. The first Thoroughbreds he bought were Precious Pearl, a mare by Zeus, and her yearling colt by High Time. Named Lee O. Cotner, this colt proved to be a top race horse. The first horse he bred, owned and trained for himself was Don Leon, which as a 2-year-old won $44,000 in competition with one of the greatest crops of Thoroughbreds ever seen in America. The book was originally printed in 1938 and was so popular that it rapidly went out of print and became a collector's item. We predict the same future for the present edition. A. M-S.

Mr. Jack Stevens, General Chairman
Greater Atlanta Shrine Horse Show
75 Alexander Street, N. W.
Atlanta 8, Georgia
Dear Jack:

As per your request, attached are tabulations of results of the Atlanta Shrine Horse Show which I hope will prove informative now and helpful later. Thanks to both you and Mrs. Stille for your cooperation in this analysis.

While I believe the figures and observations are self explanatory, I would like to point out the following:

1) Hunter entries averaged 16.53 horses per class, more than 60% over the next highest average.

2) Hunters paid nearly 40% of all entry fees received.

3) Of particular interest for its future significance is that the three classes for Junior Hunters (18 years and under) averaged 25 horses per class - or 250% of the show average.

These figures seem to prove a factor you and I have discussed: namely, the overwhelming popularity of hunter type horses. This is particularly true in case of junior riders, a positive forecast of the future trend.

You will recall that hunter owners and friends contributed $2,160 toward sponsoring classes, which, with entry fees, total nearly $4,500 direct revenue, or considerably more than the hunter prize money of $3,250. The official program does not indicate such tangible support from other sources.

It is reasonable to assume that spectator interest, i.e., families, relatives, friends, would run in about the same ratio as the entries, so I believe you will agree the aggregate revenue created by hunters represents a very substantial part of the show's total income, probably far in excess of the ratio of hunter class expenses.

In fact, someone has suggested that the sponsors would do far better financially with an exclusively hunter show. We, of course, recognize the desirability of a balanced show, but think it should be properly balanced in relation to interest and revenue.

Presuming the Atlanta show is a typical medium size one, particularly in this area, I am taking the liberty of sending copies of this information to several persons who have indicated interest in the subject.

Thanks again for your cooperation and with best wishes for a most successful show next year, I am

Cordially yours,
Cody Laird, Treasurer

Mary Keough Drury

Dear Sir:

I am enclosing a picture of the entrance to Fox Hollow Farm of the late Mary Keough Drury. The place has recently been sold by her daughter, Terry Drury Jenkins (a frequent correspondent for your paper), who, with her husband, has acquired a larger and more suitable farm between Orange and Culpeper in order to continue and expand their breeding of both Welsh ponies and hunters.

Before the inscription on the gate goes into oblivion, I thought you might wish to perpetuate it in your columns, since I think it most typically demonstrates the spirit, determination, and will of a great little horsewoman.

Think also how proud she would be of her redheaded grandson already showing in lead-in classes.

Sincerely yours,
William F. Scott

A Question

Dear Sir:

I have been a subscriber to The Chronicle for some years and have always found it most interesting and an excellent means of keeping abreast of the latest events and ideas. Also, I have a great respect for your opinions as expressed in The Chronicle editorials.

Recently a difference of opinion has arisen in this area, which is of some concern to me, and I have taken the liberty of writing to ask for information and your advice on the matter.

The question is, should conformation hunters at outdoor Shows be shown over courses in the ring or over outside courses, provided, of course, that the grounds are large enough for the latter. Incidentally, most of the outdoor Shows here are held in fairly small rings. Also, there are few, if any, Horse Show classes in this Zone for working hunters, so these do not enter into the picture.

Those in favour of outside courses cite the obvious advantages, namely:

(1) more natural, varied and substantial fences can be constructed in advance, rather than the necessarily more flimsy show ring jumps, which have to be taken in and out of the ring between classes.

(2) a horse can move on and set a proper hunting pace, which sometimes is difficult in a small ring, and consequently the way of going can be more easily and correctly judged.

On the other hand, those favouring courses in the ring argue that:

(1) the time consumed in sending a class of hunters over the longer outside course is excessive.

(2) there is greater spectator appeal if the horses perform close up and in full view at all times.

In addition, there is, of course, the combination of the two, i.e., having part of the course in the ring and part outside starting and finishing in the ring, but this is often difficult to arrange with stands, cars, spectators, etc., in the immediate vicinity of the ring.

It would be greatly appreciated, therefore, if you would be kind enough to let me know which method is favoured by the majority of the better outdoor Shows in the Eastern United States, where many years of broad experience would, no doubt, dictate the policy. Also, any comments which you might care to make on this subject would be most gratefully received.

Yours sincerely,
J. S. Hargrave

Cubbing, Late October

Touchstone

Being by nature a stay-in-bed-until-a-reasonable-hour man, my enthusiasm for Cub Hunting does not mount until late October and then not until I am in the saddle, well under way, and the sun has come over the horizon to warm things up a little. I suppose that this admission marks me as a half hearted sort of fox-hunting man, but not so - once the hounds come into view and the hustle and bustle of the meet is apparent. The lonely ride through the half dark countryside is forgotten. I can see the tops of the little hills showing above the white ground mist; the larger hills, which a short while ago were indistinct landscape, are now a majestic sight; the sun has risen above the ridge and crowns the whole range with a golden halo, whilst the lower slopes are a deep purple, soon to be erased by the mounting light.

Streamers of mist rise from the river proving, so they say, that the atmospheric temperature is colder than its surface. I for one don't need any proof, and if we don't move off pretty soon, both myself and my horse are liable to freeze to death, both of us being in pretty poor physical condition after the long summer lay-off. It's easy for the Master and the hunt staff to appear so relaxed. They have been walking hounds all summer, and have been cubbing since early September. Just the same, if I were they, the lay-a-bed stragglers could go hang and the hounds would move off at the appointed time. Still I must admit it is a great comfort, when one is a little late, that the Master is a reasonable man and has drawn the line in one's favor. (Not that I am ever guilty of this sin.) If you have ever tried to find the Field once they have disappeared into the surrounding countryside you will know what I mean.

Moving Off

At last the stragglers appear and we move off toward the East. My mind leaps ahead to all the probable coverts in this direction and to what lies between, especially to the fences which we will have to jump in "cold blood" - and cold blood is not half descriptive enough of the feeling in the pit of one's stomach. The Horse Show people describe this feeling as "butterflies", but a truer description would be "sinking" - and with a ton of lead. Why didn't I take this horse up earlier? Why did I turn him out at all? He's too fat to jump, he's not much of a jumper anyhow and if he were he might jump me off. Wouldn't be so bad if you could see the fences, but with a whole summer's crop of weeds covering the take-off side, I don't stand a chance. Really ought to use the gates until the horse is more fit, if there are gates and they're not locked. A fellow could kill himself on those jumps this time of the year. All right in the hunting season, but not cubbing.

On To Covert

Why does the Master have to come this way, all right for him he's fit, and he jolly well sees to it that his horses are fit also. Guess he must have a sadistic streak in him, loves to smile in that "sorry old man, your own fault you know" attitude of his. Anybody would think that I should have a guilty feeling, just because I was too busy to help road hounds or help out with the young entry earlier in the cubbing season. I pay my subscription and then some; that alone should make him happy. Seems there are plenty of people with nothing better to do, who would be only too glad to lend a hand without his calling on me. Hope he doesn't ask me why I haven't been out, wouldn't know what to say to him. He wouldn't believe me anyhow, so I might just as well stay as far away from him as possible. Counting myself, there are only six in the Field; these few out of all of the membership should prove my heart is in the right place and that I am an enthusiastic follower.

Thank goodness somebody used his head and the Field has arrived at the first covert without having to jump. The hounds are still grouped around the Huntsman's horse under invisible control; not one of them breaks until they are 'loosed in'. Then the old hounds silently move through the thick autumn cover of grass and into the wood. The young hounds, all excited, are whimpering. Some are working and some are not interested at all; despite the huntsman's urging, they sit on their sterns and look up at the tree-tops. Squirrel hunting no doubt. Now if I were Huntsman here's where I would introduce these puppies to the business end of my hunting crop. But he talks and croons to them until they eventually try to climb up to him in his saddle whilst he rides on through the first covert and the second.

THE CHRONICLE

The Find

Hounds keep within sound of his voice and don't appear to be very keen until crossing an open patch of meadow between coverts. One of the Honorary Whippers-In views a red fox away (vivid imagination). The Huntsman puts the hounds on and the Field moves up at the trot, (if one can get his horse to trot in the cubbing season) under the Field Master's control, who, at this point, seems to be blind, deaf, utterly devoid of all excitement and (still worse), sense of direction. Doesn't she hear those hounds going away? Pretty soon we'll be lost and our morning will be spoiled. Not a sound - the pack has left us and unless we move on faster we will never catch up. There was a time when at this point I would have taken my own line and I've a good mind to do so now, except that, if I did, I might not be invited out again. If I am to get the ginger out of this horse, I've got to come out more, so there is nothing else to do but to get into line and follow the leader. We have lost the hounds anyway and my horse is not fit enough to catch up with them so, now I have nothing to lose. Women!

Hounds have opened again, somewhere ahead, now maybe we will get a move on. Still the same old pace, in fact it is not too long before we come to a halt. I must say the horses are dripping sweat and over excited, eager to go on, despite their soft condition. Perhaps it's a good thing we have been taking it easy. A lot of people I know would have gone dashing about with no consideration for their horses' fitness or for their own pre-season sloppiness in the saddle, and I do mean sloppy. Funny thing! We seem to have come several miles and not one jump that is anything to speak of, just a gap here and there and a tumble down stone wall. I could have sworn that there were several of those oversized post and rail fences in this part of the country, to say nothing of those big black chicken coops. It's always the way, just when a fellow really feels like a good gallop across country the hounds never get out of the woods. Seems to me that they have been screaming around in circles for hours.

WHEN DID HE JOIN

Hacking Home

These woods must either be full of foxes or the Huntsman has decided that we are far enough away from the kennels and his breakfast is long overdue. I could do with some eggs and bacon myself and I might just as well pull out and make a beeline for home. Where is everybody? Not five minutes ago they were all here, clop-clopping along like a mule train; now suddenly they have disappeared without a sound. Well, I'm going on home anyway so it doesn't matter. Tomorrow I will be regaled with all of the usual stories about the rattling good run they had just after I pulled out; how the hounds, after splitting up a family of foxes, finally settled onto the vixen's line and ran like veterans for 45 minutes, finally putting her to ground after a five mile point. Every year the story is the same, with variations according to who is telling it. I would have had to pull out anyway, my horse seems to be pooped. If I have to miss out on more runs like today I'm going to find another groom, one who will exercise this horse and get him really fit. After all I pay him enough to support a bank president and yet he complains about not having time to exercise the horses properly.

Home in sight at long last. Horse nicely cooled out and stepping along fine, ears cocked, head up, looking here and there for his friends out on pasture, so eager that it's hard to restrain him from breaking into a canter. Could be he is fitter than I supposed, certainly doesn't act like he's too soft, perhaps he could go again this week. Losing the hounds like we did gives me another opportunity to hunt him. Yes sir, nothing like these early morning rides to make a fellow feel on top of the world. Must call the Master and thank him for a wonderful day.

BOWMAN PORTRAIT REALIZES $41,150 FOR U.S.E.T.

An equestrian portrait to be painted by Jean Bowman, the subject to be designated by the highest bidder, was auctioned for the benefit of the United States Equestrian Team at the National Horse Show Ball at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel on Friday evening, November 7th. This was a Chinese Auction, each bidder agreed to contribute the amount of his or her highest bid to the U.S.E.T., whether or not they secured the portrait. The bidding started at $25 and was finally closed when Norman Coates of Morristown, N. J., whose hunters and show horses bear the preface "Volco", offered $10,500. The total amount realized for the team was $41,150. Humphrey Finney, president of the Fasig-Tipton Co., acted as auctioneer. Mr. Coates has still to designate the horse whose portrait will be painted by Miss Bowman.

U.S. BETTING

A Gallup poll on betting in this country shows that whereas 17 per cent of the total population bets on sporting events, only 7 per cent bet on horse racing.

TRAINING COSTS

A correspondent from Gainesville, Va. writes "The Thoroughbred Record": - "As a very small owner who has been in the black for the past six years, speaking to other enthusiastic small breeder-owners, I submit my own answer to the trainer cost problem. It is this: get your horse or horses legged up and dead fit on the farm. Try them against the clock and in company, at the nearest available training track, enough times to know what you have. Turn nothing over to a trainer until you are sure your horse has the speed and stamina to have a reasonable chance to win. If this is done, you will save well over a thousand dollars preliminary training bills. And last but not least, if your horse is even slightly injured or at all sick, get it home quick and do not pay from three to four hundred dollars a month for board and treatment that costs very little at home."

German

Equestrians

Tour

Middleburg, Va. Area Visited

Part of the tour arranged by Charles N. Bartelings of the Touramerica organization included a visit to a Meet of the Blue Ridge Hunt, and to several Thoroughbred farms in the Clark - Fauquier County areas, for four of his clients, all of whom hail from West Germany, and all with an interest in horses. Although collectively their experience is confined to German breeds of riding horses - Holstein, Westphalian, Trackehnen and so on, they have a keen interest in the Thoroughbred horse and Thoroughbred breeding.

The farms visited were: Audley (Berryville, Virginia) studs - Call Over and Mr. Black, Training track and barns. Brookmeade (Upperville, Virginia), studs - Sky Ship and More Sun, weanlings, broodmares, barns, etc. At this point the lady visitors were taken on a tour of the farm by Mr. Preston Burch, trainer for Brookmeade and Mr. "Bill" Ballenger, farm manager, who also arranged luncheon for the guests. Llangollen Farm (Upperville, Virginia) where they were shown the studs Mister Gus and Endeavour II, by Mrs. Tessa Stuart acting for Mrs. M. E. Lunn, the owner of Llangollen Farm. Rokeby Farm (Mr. Paul Mellon) Upperville, Virginia, where by kind permission of Mr. Mellon the broodmares and weanlings were shown by the stable manager, Mr. Forrest Dishman. This excellent showing made a fitting climax to a wonderful day.

The four German ladies on the tour were Mrs. Jenny Dulgen-Kirdorf, well known equestrian, of Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Bavaria. Mrs. Jutta Wahnschaffe of Dortmund, breeder of Westphalian horses; Mrs. Gerda Friedrichs of Toronto, Canada, recently from Germany, now breeding Trackehnen horses from original bloodlines started by her family 1732; and Mrs. E. Glahn, well known equestrian expert. G. G.

The Genesee Valley Hunt Race Meet

Michael Kelley

By now it has become almost an established tradition that Brun de Gris should win the Genesee Valley Hunt Cup. This year the teenage horse did it again without any trouble. Five horses originally were scheduled to run in the 3 1/2 miles timber race but at the last minute the two Canadian entries were scratched so that three went postward. Brun de Gris, very capably ridden by Don Yull, set the pace and Joseph Chandler's entry, Poag's Heir, was hard on his heels until the first fence where he fell and jockey Tom Burckes spent a few minutes remounting. By this time the Franz Stone entry had disappeared into the horizon. The third entry, Doctor Common, was a distant third throughout the race until Eric Meyer thought it best to pull up. Brun de Gris came in galloping just about as easily as he started out. Mr. Burckes did finish the course after some delay.

The ladies supplied the enthusiastic crowd with the fastest race of the day, clocked at four minutes 50 seconds for the 2 1/2 mile jaunt. Mrs. R. B. Taylor's entry, Bright Mate, piloted by Mrs. P. Lother, left the gate jet-propelled and proceeded around the course like the Valley version of Sputnik. Mrs. Reed Hunt, on her good galloping Gino's Blarney, was a hoot and a hollar behind the lead horse, but as Mrs. Hunt expressed it after the race, her horse just didn't have the necessary gas to keep up with the Taylor entry. Uncle Seaweed, owned by W. P. Wadsworth and ridden by his daughter Sally, fell at the seventh jump and there were some anxious moments until Sally got up to reassure her many friends that she was alright. In third position was another Stone entry, Judith, ridden by Mrs. Gracia Meyer who jockeyed for this spot in the beginning with Marcia DeMent on her Creme de Menthe, then maintained the third placing for much of the race.

The third race over timber, the John Jorrock's (dubbed the fat man's race) featured a spill and an exciting finish. As the three entries broke from the starting gate the favored Grey Puss led until the third fence where he and rider Tom Burckes hit the ground. Quickly remounting Mr. Burckes continued. The then lead horse, Jomen, a Wadsworth entry, had a refusal at the fourth fence so shortly after Grey Puss again was in the lead. This was the order for much of the race but immediately after the last jump Lee Gardiner on the big striding Jomen made his bid, slid past Grey Puss, and came in the winner. Mr. William Welch on his Late Date was in third position most of the time and finished in that spot.

It was tough to be a finish judge this race day as the flat races practically all had slam-bang finishes. Some were so close that a deep breath could have made the difference between victory or defeat. A new race was added this year which seemed to meet with favor; it was a two mile hunter flat race for amateur riders on qualified hunters. As usual, the Farmer's Flat Race had the biggest mish-mash of equine specimens since there were two honest-to-gosh race horses, a couple of hunters, a school horse and the rest family cow ponies. It was a right competitive affair.

Racing is as popular as ever in the Valley, the tickets were a complete sell-out, the parking area was jam-packed, the refreshment stand did a brisk business and many hunting folk went away with the notion of 'just maybe I'll be dashing around that course next year'.

C. T. CHENERY

Virginian C. T. Chenery is more famous in the world of big business - than in sports - although he has owned such champion horses as Hill Prince, Prince Hill, Third Brother and now, First Landing.

The 71-year-old Chenery, a corporation executive with offices at 90 Broad Street in New York City, is another great American success story. After two years of college, he quit at the age of 16 to earn enough to finish his education. For three years he toiled as a surveyor with an engineering party laying out the route of the Virginian Railway, through the rugged Appalachians.

After graduating from Washington and Lee, with a Phi Beta Kappa key, he joined another engineering group that traveled by pack train, some 500 miles into the uncharted interior of Alaska, to reconnoiter a planned railroad for the government.

During World War I, he served as a Major of Engineering at Ft. Leavenworth, Camp Lee and Ft. Belvoir. By 1926 he was established as a major league corporate executive. He is now chairman of the board of Southern Natural Gas and the Offshore Company, and a director of the Air Reduction Company.

A volcanically energetic grey-haired six-footer, with crinkling blue eyes, Chenery is a curious mixture of good-humored pessimism, sound realism and an utter lack of affectation.

His interest in horses is lifelong. He galloped 2-year-olds as a youngster, and used horses, of course, on his Alaskan expedition and during his Army service.

"I used to play some polo," he says, "And I foxhunted with the Goldens Bridge Hounds in New York. I rode Thoroughbreds then. In fact, my first Thoroughbred was a mare called Katti De L, that I foxhunted."

"In 1936, I purchased 'The Meadows', a 2,000-acre estate at Doswell, Virginia that had belonged to members of my family for many generations, and I started racing and breeding modestly," he continues. "We bought four or five mares at the Kentucky sales, all for moderate prices."

One of his early buys in 1939 was a yearling filly named Hildene for $600 at the Xalapa Farm dispersal. Now deceased, she was one of racing's all-time bargains.

"She was not a good race mare," Chenery recalls, "She showed speed, but stopped eight times in eight races. Then I stopped racing her. I do not recall if she ran in a claimer. But she was eligible."

Hildene, the "million-dollar" mare, is the dam of Hill Prince, Horse of the Year in 1950, and four other major stakes champions: Mangohick, Prince Hill, Third Brother - and now First Landing, leading 2-year-old of 1958.

Win or lose, it's for sure Chenery can smile afterwards. He did when Arcaro climbed off Hill Prince once in California and told him, "I have just lost you $60,000."

NOT EVEN ARCARO

After reciting the fact that Eddie Arcaro, then first string rider for Greentree, picked Devil Diver to ride in the 1942 Kentucky Derby rather than Shut Out (the winner), Tom O'Reilly observes: - "It always struck this plunger that the story of Arcaro picking the wrong horse in the Derby should be a constant source of balm to a player. After all, if Arcaro can't pick 'em why be hard on yourself when you miss one?"

FOXHUNTER'S DON'T LOSE

Writing in a recent issue of "Horse and Hound", the one and only "Dalesman" says: - "Of course I could give you a whole book of 'do and do not,' but really the whole of foxhunting revolves around the simple word 'lose.' Do not lose your temper, hounds, sense of humour, your horse, the good opinion of your lady friend, manners, way home, nor the memory of the fact that you should pay a higher subscription. If you are a huntsman you must not lose your fox. So you see how simple it all is really."

NEJI'S ADMIRES

The best-made Thoroughbred in training, Neji also is a delightful personality. He thinks he is people Amused the crowd in the paddock mooching an apple his groom was eating, listening intently as any $2 punter to Fred Capossela's "call," and trying to pull up to fraternize with everybody along the rail of the walking ring He has made 'chase enthusiasts of parlay players, and horse lovers of "numbers" players' to whom all other Thoroughbreds are anonymous. (Charles Hutton in The Morning Telegraph)

FLYINGEST BREEDER

One of the most colorful breeders in Northern California, is Col. George Lavan, army test pilot, one of the first men to fly the new "man-in-a-rocket" Starfighter missile plane, which does something better than 1600 miles an hour. When Col. F. W. Koester of the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association recently kept a morning appointment to inspect Col. Lavan's stock, he observed that the latter looked tired. The latter said he was - a bit. He had already been to New York and back that morning.

RANIKABOO

The hunter and jumper, Ranikaboo, has been sold by Dr. G. A. Ackerman of Lincoln, Nebr., to Maurice Roberts of White Bear Lake, Minnesota. L.M.A.

LIPIZZANERS AT GARDEN STATE

As an added attraction on the day of the running of the Garden State for 2-year-olds, world's richest race, at Garden State Park, Camden, N. J., there was an exhibition of Haute Ecole by the Lipizzaner horses of Luciana and Friedel Paster. This is the breed used at the Spanish Riding School. In addition to the classic high school movements the horses also performed a number of circus movements as well.

THE CHRONICLE

MAJOR AND MRS. ALEXANDER

Major and Mrs. John Alexander, of the Milford Stud, County Carlow, Ireland, have just completed a few weeks stay in this country. During a visit to Belmont Park they were entertained at luncheon by Mr. John Hanes, president of the New York Racing Association. While in Virginia they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mackay-Smith, of Lucky Hit Farm, White Post, and visited the North Cliff Stud of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Church II; the Newstead Stud of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Hardin; and Mrs. Mariondu-Pont Scott's Montpelier. Their next stop was in Lexington, Ky., where they stayed with James Henderson and visited most of the principal stud farms in that area. The Alexanders, both former Masters of the Limerick Hounds, stand at the Milford Stud Tehran, sire of *Tulyar, and Gilles de Retz, probably the best son of *Royal Charger now in the British Isles. They also maintain an extensive stable of show and field hunters and a well known herd of Angus cattle.

M. Mulford of High Meadow Farm, The Plains, Va. Abram S. Hewitt of Long Branch, N.J., Va.

'CHASING MARE

When C. R. Snowden's mare Nizam's Pet won the Rouge Dragon Hurdle Handicap in the closing week of the Belmont Park autumn meeting, she became the first filly or mare to win a steeplechase or hurdle stakes since H. S. Nichols' Ginny Bug set a new track record in the Arlington Park Hurdle Stakes on June 25, 1954.

AIDAN ROARK

General manager Gar Moore of the Fair Grounds Track, New Orleans, La., recently announced the appointment of Aidan Roark as steward to replace Jack Young. Long time readers of The Chronicle will remember with joy the column which Mr. Roark used to write for this paper, entitled "Great Aunt Amelia".

TRACK AND FARM

Anne Delaney, formerly prominent in New Jersey Thoroughbred breeding circles and now a resident of her native Boston, Mass., has recently opened a national advertising and bloodstock agency of her own called Track and Farm, located at 575 Boylston St., Boston 16, Mass. Previous to opening her own business, she had been for the past several years, advertising manager of the Horseman's Journal. One of the major objectives of Track and Farm will be to bring distinguished proven studs to New England.

WIRE NEWS

The Associated press reports from London that "British hunting saboteurs claimed gains against the stag hounds of Exmoor Forest - with chemical warfare."

Agents of The League Against Cruel Sports spread aniseed trails across miles of forest in an attempt to throw off the hunt hounds. Their observers reported that these measures met with success. All we can say is that it looks like a question of who is having greater sport members of "The League" or members of the hunt. M. R.

EVEN ON HORSES

A young city visitor to Clarke County, Virginia, age 6, was taken to the recent opening meet of the Blue Ridge Hunt. His comment on returning home was: "You never saw so many people. There were even some people there on horses."

TRACK VETERINARIANS

Dr. Daniel J. Anderson, DVM, and part owner of the Haltom City veterinary hospital, Fort Worth, Texas, one of the most modern institutions of its kind in the Southwest, returned home after a brief visit to Chicago. Dr. Anderson, who is associated with Dr. Jack Heaton, DVM, and Dr. R. C. Daniels, DVM, has been active in recent years with a campaign to organize resident veterinarians at race tracks so that a National program for the betterment of conditions can be set. Dr. Anderson reported that his Middle West and Southwestern organizations are functioning smoothly and that many of the gross abuses once prevalent are now eliminated. B. B.

(L. to r.) - Daniel C. Sands, Ex-MFH of the Middleburg Hunt, presenting trophy to Sidney Watters, Jr., who trains Mrs. Cordelia S. May's Billing Bear, the winner of the The Daniel C. Sands Cup at the Virginia Fall Race Meeting, Middleburg, Va. Jockey J. Murphy was the winning rider. VITAMINS FOR BALLYMOSS

Earlier in his racing career, Ballymoss presented quite a problem in that he was highly nervous and wore himself out prior to a race. On the advice of the veterinarian, trainer Vincent O'Brien gave him a course of Vitamin E, which completely cured the horse of his trouble.

SCHOOLED FOR JUMPING

G. L. de Mola's Tombeur (Tresor-Peccavi by Amadro), recent winner at long odds of the Prix du Conseil Municipal, second richest French fall handicap for three-year-olds and upwards, was recently schooled for steeplechase events and was scheduled to make his debut as a jumper in the near future at Auteuil.

RYE AND RYE

The Mason brothers, who have had great success planting rye for winter pasture, say: "that rye was first used in Giles County (Va.) to pad saddles; later it was distilled to make the saddle more comfortable to the rider; and now it is used to make pastures bigger and better."

CHLOROPHYL CLIQUE

Sometimes kidded as the Chlorophyll Clique, horses which race over the grass will be featured in five allowance races and 11 high grade claiming events at the autumn meeting at Pimlico, November 13 through December 17. Grass racing is a colorful diversion to the regular program over the dirt track.
